SOCIETY

Reception for Dr. and Mrs.

R. D. Williams.

Dr. Robert Day Williams, new principal of Mills School, and Mrs. Williams last evening met a large number of representative Honolulu men and women at a notable reception given at Mills School, under the combined auspices of Mills School and its allied institution, Kawaiahao Seminary.

From 8 until 10 o'clock there was a constant stream of guests passing the receiving line in the spacious assembly room at Mills, and a large number of autos were parked on the school grounds, the crowd testifying to the cordiality of the welcome extended to Dr. and Mrs. Williams by the people of Honolulu.

In the receiving line were Dr. Doremus Scudder, president of the board of managers of Mid-Pacific Institute; Dr. and Mrs. Williams, Miss Mabel E. Boshier, principal of Kawaiahao Seminary, and Mr. Frank C. Atherton, treasurer of the board of managers, and Mrs. Atherton.

The halls, corridors and reception room on this occasion were very beautifully decorated with flowers, palms and other greens, the decorative plan being elaborately carried out. The decoration was done by the students under the direction of faculty committees. Refreshments were served at small tables, grouped, during the evening and at punch tables. The Kawaiahao Seminary girls, whose concerted singing is remarkably tuneful and sweet, during a large part of the evening rendered school songs and other choral selections, the soft choruses making a pretty effect, and not at all interfering with the conversations in progress all over the big and well-filled assembly hall.

More than 500 people, probably between 600 and 700, paid their respects to the new principal and Mrs. Williams. The callers included leading business and professional men, educators, religious and social workers, and were representative of the citizens of Honolulu to an unusual degree, illustrating not only the hospitable welcome for the newcomers in the local field of activity, but the cordial regard in which Mid-Pacific Institute and the institutions which compose it, including Mills School and Kawaiahao Seminary, are held by the people of this city.

Mrs. Philip F. Frear, matron at Mills, and Miss Boshier were in general charge of the arrangements of the evening, and the committee included John F. Nelson, vice-principal of Mills, who assisted in welcoming the visitors; Miss J. B. Peabody and Miss E. N. Jones, Miss Mary Stambaugh and Miss Edna Byrd of the Mills faculty and Messrs. Yost and Merritt of the same faculty.

Airy Frocks on Tabu List.
A very charming Honolulu lady who has recently visited San Francisco returned the other day and the accounts she has given of the fashions in the western city have given some of the mothers here much food for thought, in fact so much that there is a rumor afloat that the gowns of the younger set are to be much more strictly censored by mother.

"Really, my dear, I was shocked," she said when speaking of the hostess of the San Francisco maid. "Colored stockings or even black ones are not the least bit fashionable any more. Everything is in the flesh tint, and the tint is very natural." It seems that the young ladies on the mainland even wear flesh-colored hose with their high boots as well as the low ones.

"But the gowns," she continued, "were positively ugly." When I was a young girl there was a graduation dress; that was usually of white net and lace; then the debutante frock, which had just the tiniest bit of a low neck and was of silk or satin. Then of course after the girls were married they wore just as daring costumes as they liked. But the San Francisco debutante seems to wear gowns that would have shocked the most daring of the matrons of 20, yes, even 10 years ago.

"Pale pink and gray, or flesh and gray, are the most popular of the color combinations. And the gown is a mere wisp, almost delicate enough to crush within one hand. The bodice is just folds of silver tissue hung over the shoulder with a band of rhinestones or a slender wreath of flowers and there is not even a suggestion of a sleeve. The skirt is very full but is fashioned just with three or four layers of pink and gray tulle. That is all."

When the charming lady was telling of her experience with the fashions there were present in the gathering two or three mothers whose daughters are members of the younger set and there was much discussion as to whether or not local debutantes should be allowed to wear the ethereal frocks. From the trend of the conversation it was gathered that sleeveless, silver and pink costumes or any sleeveless costumes are to be put on the tabu list in Honolulu.

Many Parties for Thanksgiving.

The proverbial turkey has been chased around the yard, and now is waiting only to be stuffed and roasted for the Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow. There has been considerable fuss made over the Thanksgiving entertainments this year, and while there will be a number of large affairs, there are to be countless little family dinners, with perhaps one or two guests. At the Courtland will be one of the largest of the supper dances. Many of the guests there are planning dinner-parties which are to be followed by a dance. Heinie's, too, will have its share of guests, as a number of society folk have planned informal affairs at the beach.

A very pretty custom and an old one in the islands is that of inviting strangers to partake of the Thanksgiving dinner. There are a number of the old families here who take much pleasure in having as their guests at this time young men or young women who for some reason or other are away from home. This spirit, which is so characteristic of Hawaii, is greatly appreciated by the stranger within the gates, for there is nothing quite so depressing as to spend Thanksgiving and Christmas away from the home circle.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Hibben and Professor Robert Maxwell Scowen, which took place in Princeton yesterday has attracted much attention all over the United States. The bride is the daughter of John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University and the bridegroom is profes-

Tea for Author of Famous Book.

At the picturesque Livermore home on Russian Hill, Mrs. Cale Young Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," was guest of honor at a tea yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Norman Livermore and Miss Beth Livermore assisted in receiving. Mrs. Rice is a slender, dark-eyed woman with a reserve and poise not at all suggestive of her famous heroine. She and Mr. Rice are great travelers and have visited San Francisco several times on their way to the Orient, or around the world. Their home is in Louisville, Ky., but since the success of "Mrs. Wiggs" they have lived much in New York. Mr. Rice is a poet and retired banker. —Oakland Tribune, November 14.

Mrs. Wooten in Washington.

Mrs. Wooten with Major Wooten was for some time in Honolulu.

Home From Hawaii.
Max Friedmann and Theodore George Lehner of Milwaukee, who have just returned from the Hawaiian Islands, where they have been for the last three months since leaving Honolulu, had as their dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kelly, Miss Adele Harris and Miss Lynda Jenson. —Los Angeles Times, November 14, 1915.

Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper Entertain House-Guest.
Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper are entertaining a charming house-guest in the person of Mrs. James Low, who arrived this week in the Wilhelmina. Mrs. Low is a sister of Mrs. C. H. W. Norton of this city.

Friends of Lieut. and Mrs. Vossler will be interested in the following:
Lieut. and Mrs. Frank Vossler will leave shortly for the East, where the former has been ordered for duty on the U. S. S. Nevada. Mrs. Vossler is one of the attractive young matrons here and will be greatly missed at social affairs this winter. She is a sister of Mrs. James Sperry, who makes her home in Sausalito. —San Francisco Chronicle, Nov. 14.

Mrs. Rafferty, wife of Colonel William Carroll Rafferty, U. S. A., has returned to the Waldorf-Astoria for the winter. Colonel Rafferty has been stationed at Honolulu for several months. He will return to New York in January, when he and Mrs. Rafferty will give an afternoon dance for their daughter, Miss Mercedes Rafferty. —New York Herald, Nov. 7.

Mr. F. T. Williams, formerly of the Waiialua Sugar Plantation and who has been in California and Oregon for the past few months on account of ill-health, returned in the Wilhelmina yesterday greatly improved. Mr. and Mrs. Williams and Miss Williams are residing on Prospect street.

Dancing Club to Meet Again.
The Friday evening dancing club which meets with Madame Lister and Gordon Campbell in the Odd Fellows' hall on that evening, will come together again this week after a two weeks' suspension of the class. The class includes a number of the younger set who are anxious to learn and dance the new steps this winter.

Mr. Friedmann and Mr. Lehner were guests at the Moana hotel for some months. Their brilliant dinners at Heinie's and the Country Club this summer will long remain in the memory of society people who were fortunate enough to attend.

SEWARD, Alaska, Nov. 8.—The first train over the Government's Alaskan railroad ran today between Seward and Mile Twenty-nine, carrying passengers, mail and freight destined to the Iditarod. From Mile Twenty-Nine the travelers will go into the interior by dogteam. The portion of the road placed in operation today was part of the line of the old Alaska Central, taken over by the government and rehabilitated.

Under the auspices of a government bureau, Chinese carp will be imported into Philippine waters, where there is a dearth of food fish.
